Dear Mr. Burns:

My name is Brady LeSueur and I saw through the Rooster Teeth website that you had an open internship within your company that interested me a lot. The position is Cinema Productions, and I feel it is something that meets a lot of skills and talents that I have. Making films and working on movie productions has been a passion of mine since I was a kid making movies with action figures. It is the passion that drives me today, and it is something I want to work on for the rest of my life. As a huge fan, I know that Rooster Teeth is all about movie productions, and I know you, yourself, are an avid filmmaker as well.

Rooster Teeth is a company I would love to work for in a Cinema-Production capacity, and I would love to learn from film fanatics and hard workers such as those employed by Rooster Teeth, especially because I know you guys could help me become better. Though many people probably say they have the skills, I want to show that the difference I have is that of wanting to be a part of a company like this because of its stature and reputation with content and productions, but also because I feel like I can help you become even better as a company from within this position.

I hope the skills, experience and talents you see in my resume are the kinds of points you are looking for when it comes to applicants FOR this internship. I would like to do anything I can to be a part of Rooster Teeth and again, I think I fit well with what you are looking for.

Please feel free to contact me if you have additional questions, and thank you for your time to look over my letter and resume for the position. I look forward to hearing from you in the future.

Sincerely,

Braden K. LeSueur
